

Print Media S.A Fellows – 1998 Awards

Winners

01

Ian Snelling

Snelling is well known for his inquiring mind, cutting insight and fascination for figures, facts and fantasies. He is the man who gave birth to Synergy and the man who has developed its theory to where it is today by working incessantly with others from within and out of the industry.

02

Jos Kuper

Citation not available

03

Barbara Cooke

Cooke's contribution to the industry is immense as it encompasses an amazing history and knowledge in newspapers and magazines and in all aspects of the print media. Barbara is a lateral thinker and researcher of immense knowledge with an untiring and true devotion to her company and to the corporate print medium.

04

Bob Harrison

Harrison had the most unbelievable network imaginable and was a tireless worker for the print media. He has gained experience from both the newspaper and magazine worlds. Thus, his experience and ability has led him to keep print media at the forefront of the advertising industry.

05

Hennie van Deventer

Hennie van Deventer holds a reputation of great stature both within the local industry and within the newspaper publishing fraternity across the globe. He is recognised for his wisdom, his diplomacy and naturally for his contribution to print media in South Africa over a considerable number of years.

Roy Paulson

Paulson, whose field of expertise is newspapers, is well recognised by the industry for his worldwide contacts and experience. He has dedicated himself to the industry over innumerable years and has worked at all levels, virtually on all committees and was, in his time, an excellent president of the industry body.